

Rocky

Volume 39, Number 2, Fall, 2004

Mountain Geology

CONTENTS

	Page
J. L. Allen	65–84	Timing, style, and significance of Cambrian through Laramide brittle reactivation along the Proterozoic Homestake shear zone, Colorado mineral belt
C. P. Palmer, D. W. Boyd, and E. L. Yochelson	85–91	The Wyoming Jurassic fossil Dentalium subquadratum Meek, 1860 is not a scaphopod but a serpulid worm tube
M. C. Colson, R. O. Colson, and R. Nellerhoe	93–111	Stratigraphy and depositional environments of the upper Fox Hills and lower Hell Creek Formations at the Concordia Hadrosaur Site in northwestern South Dakota
E. S. Belt, J. H. Hartman, J. A. Diemer, T. J. Kroeger, N. E. Tibert, and H. A. Curran	113–140	Unconformities and age relationships, Tongue River and older members of the Fort Union Formation (Paleocene), western Williston Basin, U.S.A.
K. R. Aalto	141–151	The King and Hayden Surveys: Overlap of pioneering mapping in northern Colorado

UNIVERSITY OF WYOMING

Web site: pubs.gg.uwyo.edu/rmg.htm

ISSN 0010-7980